

Emma Hack

Emma Hack is an Adelaide-based artist working in the unique medium of body paint installation and photography. Exhibiting extensively throughout Australia since 1999, Emma's astounding artworks have since captured the attention of collectors and art lovers worldwide.

Emma Hack's collaboration with Grammy award winning musician Gotye resulted in the iconic, award winning music video for Somebody That I Used to Know, which has been viewed by over 420 million people worldwide, raising her profile in the US, UK and Europe. Emma has since worked on major artistic commissions for Motor Accident Commission, South Australia, where she built a sculpture of 17 bodies, painted as a crashed car, again drawing worldwide attention to her craft. Emma most recently created a commission for WA Ballet, utilising the form of 21 Ballet dancers to create their upcoming program imagery, in October, Emma will creative direct the Ballet that will launch the program, furthering her reach and skill within the arts.

In 2013 Emma Hack held successful shows In Hong Kong, Singaporea, Brussels, Aspen, The Hamptons and Milan. Emma has received great acclaim for her refined body paint camouflage technique; through a combination of painting on canvas, body painting and studio-based photography, her work evokes a rich array of visual narrative and magical realism.

Best known for her Wallpaper series (2005-2010) in which she painstakingly camouflaged the human form by hand painting her models into the remarkable designs of the late Florence Broadhurst - Emma Hack's diverse artwork collections draw inspiration from the unique Australian flora and fauna, as well as Oriental influences. Her work is held in numerous private and corporate collections globally.
